Piecemeal, Volume 1
Salisbury State College
Salisbury, Maryland 21801

Being several stories and psalms nobody would want to look at interspersed with memoranda variations worth a second look

along with sayings and yarns touching on grief and laughter

running sometimes as a fugitive air in the classic manner

breaking into jig time and tap dancing no how classical

and further broken by plain and irregular sounds and echoes from the roar and whirl of street crowds, work gangs, sidewalk clamor

with interludes of midnight cool blue and inviolable stars

over the phantom frames of skyscrapers[1]

we come, gently, to our theme:

that of great heights and soft shadows,
that of smallest heights and darkest shadows,
that of solitudes and many togethers,
of best and worst times,
of children, men and women,
students, teachers,
scholars of worldly-wise and worldly ways

Thus, with our theme, with general intent, we proceed,
telling our story bit by bit in piecemeal manner ...

from the people, yes by carl sandburg, copyright, 1936, by harcourt brace jovanovich, inc.; renewed, 1964, by carl sandburg. reprinted by permission of the publishers.

We come
Alone
As freshmen or Transfers,
to Houses, Apartments,
meeting new people,
making friends and
or maybe just present
We wish and run,
We cry and laugh
and then perhaps
stop

Dorms,
enemies,
day aquaintances.
to ponder this newness of
life...

faces and grass and bodies and trash with a band of outsiders looking, laughing at it all, sounding out rhythms, rhythms, rhythms, rhythms, rhythms, rhythms, rhythms

and basses

Woke up, fell out of bed,
dragged a comb across my head,
found my way downstairs and
drank a cup,
and looking up i noticed i was
late
found my coat and grabbed my hat
made the bus in seconds flat, found my way upstairs and had a smoke
somebody spoke and i went

Better to rule unruly

Man's life is tragic and comic,
full of both laughter & tears.
Words on a page - empty hollow speak of laughter and sorrow.

Jima,
time,
time, see what's
become of me
while I looked around
for my possibility
I was so hard to please.
Look around.
Leaves are brown.
And the sky is a
hazy shade of winter.

Hang on to your hopes,
my friend.
That's an easy thing to
say,
but if your hopes
should pass away
simply pretend, that you can build them
again. Look around.
Seasons change with
the scenery;
weaving time in a
tapestry.
Won't you stop and
remember me
At any convenient time?
Funny how my
memory skips
while looking over
manuscripts of
unpublished rhyme,
drinking my Vodka
and lime; I look
around, leaves are
brown, now, and
the sky is a hazy
shade of winter.

To Other Members of the Student Body—

-the yearbook staff '71-'72 subscribes to 2 major philosophies—a college yearbook should be of artistic value as well as be a memory book; and, a yearbook is for all students, not just Seniors.

A yearbook is good and bad recollections, groupings of words and/or photos.

In publishing this yearbook, we have narrated a story. One remembers not the events of every day, but bits and pieces of those days—in some semblance of an order—consequently the new name, Piecemeal.

We have tried by putting together heads and streams of consciousness.

"the book" will be published in 2 volumes, the first of which you have in hand.

Read, Enjoy, and Remember—that's what it's all about.

Note:

This was a new year, full of new people and new ideas—especially for yearbooks. You are eyewitness to that fact. We have attempted to create and invent, to draw from present, imagine a future, and, at the same time, to utilize as much as possible from the past. Success or failure, the attempt, at least, was made.

With much sweat and many tears, we learned a great deal. We grew. 'Twas a 'Higher' education.

all who share in a relationship with SSC gave birth to these two volumes, this one book with a personality all its own. Nothing was meant to displease or offend, to "spindle, fold, or mutilate." As each moment of September '71 to May '72 was unique, the yearbook, a portrayal of the life-blood of the college, is unique also. It was intended to be a happy celebration of our existence.

So now, and in years to come, Stop, Look, and Listen, Read, enjoy, and remember... That's what it is all about.

Ever,
Lynne
